

Indigenous Studies (INDS)

Sean Teuton
 Director of Indigenous Studies
 479-575-6000
 Kimpel Hall 333
 steuton@uark.edu

The Indigenous Studies minor invites discovery of alternative world views, ecological relationships, societies, religions, arts, and governments of indigenous peoples in North America and beyond from antiquity to the present. Immersed in this inherently interdisciplinary field of study, students have the opportunity to master and employ its many theories and methodologies, debates and issues, in often comparative contexts. Such exposure and training prepares those who achieve the minor for graduate work in the humanities, business, law, and the sciences as they pertain to indigenous peoples, but also for any career that requires a supple knowledge of cultural difference between Arkansas and an increasingly global world.

Requirements for a Minor in Indigenous Studies

Students seeking the minor in Indigenous Studies must complete three courses, one from each of three core groups: Culture, History, and Language and Literature. Students then complete two additional elective courses from the list below for a total of 15 credit hours. Other courses not listed below may serve the requirements, although only as approved by the Indigenous Studies program director.

Culture

ANTH 32103	Indigenous Peoples of North America: Anthropological Perspectives	3
ANTH 34703	North American Prehistory	3
ANTH 35303	Medical Anthropology	3
ANTH 41403	Ecological Anthropology	3

History

HIST 32603	History of the American Indian	3
------------	--------------------------------	---

Language and Literature

CHRK 10103	Elementary Cherokee I	3
CHRK 10203	Elementary Cherokee II	3
COMM 39803	Special Topics	3
ENGL 35503	Topics in Native American Literature and Culture ¹	3
ENGL 45503	Studies in Native American Literature and Culture ¹	3
WLLC 40103	Ethno-Historic Approach to Native American Languages	3
WLLC 30503	The Colonial French in the Mississippi Valley ²	3

¹ Topics and studies include over a dozen courses.

² Courses focus on early indigenous and French encounters in the Canadian Quebec region and along the Lower Mississippi River Valley, including the Arkansas area, respectively, combining ethnohistory and literary study of accounts found in original documents. Taught in English language.