The International Studies Program offers a major leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree. The program offers three concentrations:

- European and Transatlantic Affairs
- Peace, Security and Human Rights
- Global South

The Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences is strongly committed to the study of global interactions, and this program offers students a strong foundation for more advanced study as well as preparation for careers in an increasingly global economy and society. The degree offers a broad interdisciplinary course of study with a strong intercultural and international focus. Intensive language study and study abroad are especially encouraged.

Students who major in international and global studies are encouraged to pursue a minor or second major. Recommended fields include anthropology, economics, geography, history, political science, sociology, or world languages. Students may not earn both a major in International Studies and a minor in Global Studies.

B.A. in International and Global Studies with European and Transatlantic Affairs Concentration

The following credit hour requirements must be met (see Degree Completion Program Policy (<http://catalog.uark.edu/undergradcatalog/collegesandschools/jwilliamfulbrightcollegeofartsandsciences/>) for additional information).

State minimum core (<https://catalog.uark.edu/undergradcatalog/gened/stateminimum/>) requirements may vary by individual, based on placement and previous course credit earned. Once all core requirements are met, students may substitute with general electives in consultation with their academic adviser. Bolded courses from the course list below may be applied to portions of the State Minimum Core (<http://catalog.uark.edu/undergradcatalog/gened/stateminimum/>) requirements.

| Six credit hours of 3000-level or higher modern world language instruction in one of the following languages: Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, or Spanish. Students completing the European and Transatlantic Affairs Concentration must select a language from French, German, Italian, Russian, or Spanish. Students completing the Global South Concentration must select a language from Arabic, French, Portuguese, or Spanish. This requirement cannot be fulfilled with 3 credits in one language and three credits in another language. Students may need to fulfill prerequisites in a world language at the 1003, 1013, 2003, or 2013 levels, depending on placement in that language. Students may meet this requirement with the study of other languages with permission of the International and Global Studies director. |                                                                                 |

B.A. in International and Global Studies with European and Transatlantic Concentration Eight-Semester Degree Plan

Students wishing to follow the eight-semester degree plan should see the Eight-Semester Degree Policy (<http://catalog.uark.edu/undergraduatedcatalog/academicregulations/eightsemesterdegreecompletionpolicy/>) in the Academic Regulations chapter for university requirements of the program as well as Fulbright College requirements.

State Minimum Core (<http://catalog.uark.edu/undergraduatedcatalog/genes/stateminimum/>) requirements may vary by individual, based on placement and previous credit granted. Once all core requirements are met, students may substitute with general electives. Students should consult with their academic adviser.

| Six credit hours of 3000-level or higher modern world language instruction in one of the following languages: Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, or Spanish. Students completing the European and Transatlantic Affairs Concentration must select a language from French, German, Italian, Russian, or Spanish. Students completing the Global South Concentration must select a language from Arabic, French, Portuguese, or Spanish. This requirement cannot be fulfilled with 3 credits in one language and three credits in another language. Students may need to fulfill prerequisites in a world language at the 1003, 1013, 2003, or 2013 levels, depending on placement in that language. Students may meet this requirement with the study of other languages with permission of the International and Global Studies director. |                                                                                        |            |

| Six credit hours of 3000-level or higher modern world language instruction in one of the following languages: Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, or Spanish. Students completing the European and Transatlantic Affairs Concentration must select a language from French, German, Italian, Russian, or Spanish. Students completing the Global South Concentration must select a language from Arabic, French, Portuguese, or Spanish. This requirement cannot be fulfilled with 3 credits in one language and three credits in another language. Students may need to fulfill prerequisites in a world language at the 1003, 1013, 2003, or 2013 levels, depending on placement in that language. Students may meet this requirement with the study of other languages with permission of the International and Global Studies director. |          |

B.A. in International and Global Studies with a Peace, Security and Human Rights Concentration

Eight-Semester Degree Plan

Students wishing to follow the eight-semester degree plan should see the Eight-Semester Degree Policy in the Academic Regulations chapter for university requirements of the program as well as Fulbright College requirements.

State Minimum Core (<http://catalog.uark.edu/undergraduatecatalog/gened/stateminimum/>) requirements may vary by individual, based on placement and previous credit granted. Once all core requirements are met, students may substitute with general electives. Students should consult with their academic adviser.

Courses

INST 20103. Introduction to International and Global Studies. 3 Hours.

A historical and contemporary overview of the relations and interactions between peoples across borders, between cultures and societies, states and non-state actors, governments and non-governmental organizations, and economies, both local and global. Focus on differing disciplinary approaches to international and global studies, the transformations caused by the process of globalization, and a survey of current global issues and problems. (Typically offered: Fall and Spring)

INST 211H4. Honors Pathways to Global Social Change. 4 Hours.

Explores concepts of globality and locality in addressing social challenges associated with modernization, globalization, and international development. Employs comparative and intercultural approaches to analyze organizations across sectors and understand their approaches to selected social challenges both at the global level and locally within U.S. and international communities. Corequisite: Drill Component. Prerequisite: Honors standing. (Typically offered: Spring)

INST 3000V. Internship in International Studies. 1-6 Hour.

Internship in international studies-related agency or organization, arranged by the student and/or faculty member, under the guidance of a faculty member. (Typically offered: Summer) May be repeated for up to 6 hours of degree credit.

INST 33003. European Integration and Globalization. 3 Hours.

Interdisciplinary study of the cultural, economic, and political processes of modern European integration in the context of a changing relationship between Europe and the wider world during the 20th and 21st centuries. (Typically offered: Fall Even Years)

This course is cross-listed with HIST 31003.

INST 35003. Issues in the Global South. 3 Hours.

Interdisciplinary study of salient historical and contemporary issues of the Global South, including the cultural, economic, and political forces that shape and/or emerge from societies or political subjects that historically experienced underdevelopment and colonialism. (Typically offered: Fall Odd Years)

INST 36003. Universal Human Rights: History and Practice since 1945. 3 Hours.

Study of the development and growth of the universal human rights movement since the end of the Second World War. Emphasis on using human rights as a lens to understand and assess global affairs in the late 20th and early 21st centuries. Creates space for INST 36003 to be offered as part of a study abroad program. (Typically offered: Spring Even Years)

INST 36103. Research Methods for International and Global Studies. 3 Hours.

Focuses on critical-thinking skills and information literacy needed for the interdisciplinary areas of study that comprise international and global studies: anthropology, economics, geography, history, and political science. Focuses on thesis-development, writing skills, methodological issues, and research strategies. Prerequisite: INST 20103. (Typically offered: Fall and Spring)

INST 36703. Social Entrepreneurship. 3 Hours.

Explores notions of social entrepreneurship at both the global and local levels. Multiple case studies are analyzed to show the possibilities of participating in a market economy while promoting sustainable development. Students will undertake projects combining sound business practices with sustainable approaches to social challenges. Prerequisite: Junior standing. (Typically offered: Fall and Spring)

INST 38003. International Organization. 3 Hours.

Addresses how state and non-state actors try to organize the international system to help manage crucial issues such as the development and use of force, the efficiency and fairness of markets, and the realization and protection of human rights and environmental health. (Typically offered: Spring)
This course is cross-listed with PLSC 38003.

INST 38403. Economics of the Developing World. 3 Hours.

Examines theories and patterns of economic development in emerging economies, the role of the World Bank and IMF as multilateral lenders and examination of their success and failures in fostering development, and measures of poverty and inequality and their implications for economic development. Prerequisite: ECON 21403 or (ECON 21003 and ECON 22003). (Typically offered: Fall and Spring)

INST 38503. Emerging Markets. 3 Hours.

Analysis of the business and economic environment in emerging countries, focusing on Latin America, South East Asia and Transition Economies. Topics include market structure and market failures, financial and legal background, current institutions and political economy issues, and current business opportunities. Prerequisite: ECON 21403 or (ECON 21003 and ECON 22003). (Typically offered: Fall)

INST 39003. Crossing Borders: Transnationalism and Intercultural Transfer. 3 Hours.

Study of Transnational Theory and the concept of Intercultural Transfer Studies. Focuses on intercultural transfers of ideas, concepts, and models for political, social, economic, and cultural advancement. (Typically offered: Irregular)
This course is cross-listed with PLSC 39503.

INST 399HV. Honors Thesis. 1-6 Hour.

To be used for completing an International Studies Honors Thesis. Prerequisite: Junior standing. (Typically offered: Fall, Spring and Summer) May be repeated for up to 6 hours of degree credit.

INST 40003. Special Topics in International and Global Studies. 3 Hours.

Intensive study of key global issues or aspects of international affairs. Prerequisite: INST 20103. (Typically offered: Fall and Spring) May be repeated for up to 6 hours of degree credit.

INST 400H3. Honors Special Topics in International and Global Studies. 3 Hours.
