The Exercise Science Research Center is a student-centered facility with a unique dual purpose that includes research and educational components. Faculty from the kinesiology and exercise science programs coordinate research efforts of the center, which initiates and conducts research focused on health, exercise and physical performance. The center also provides education outreach programs for targeted groups with an emphasis on collaborative and cooperative programs with agencies in Arkansas and the region. The center also provides educational experiences for undergraduate and graduate students in the exercise science and kinesiology programs.
