The Spanish M.A. program offers a balanced course of study in literature, cultural history, critical theory, pedagogy, second-language acquisition, and biliteracy. The Master of Arts program provides a solid preparation for students who intend to pursue a Ph.D. or wish to teach at K-12 or college levels. Its comprehensive curriculum also provides a sound base for careers in education, foreign policy, or social services.

Master of Arts Degree in Spanish

Students pursuing the M.A. degree in Spanish will choose to follow one of two concentrations. Concentration one is a traditional M.A. in Hispanic literature and culture with a strong emphasis on literary analysis. This concentration is recommended for students likely to pursue work toward a Ph.D. in literature and cultural studies after the completion of the M.A.

Concentration two provides students an alternative concentration that places more emphasis on coursework in pedagogy, technology in the classroom, and second-language acquisition. This concentration is recommended more for students interested in teaching language, for students who may likely use the M.A. as a terminal degree in preparation for community college or liberal arts teaching, or for secondary teachers seeking further professional development.

Requirements for the Spanish M.A., Literature Concentration:

Aside from deficiencies, a minimum of 36 hours of graduate course work is required for the degree. All students during their first semester take WLLC 5063 Teaching Foreign Languages on the College Level (Irregular). Students must also take, usually during the first year, a research seminar (SPAN 5703) and present a research paper meeting professional research methods and standards. Each candidate must pass a comprehensive examination covering course work and reading lists on five historical periods of the Hispanic world, including at least two traditions (Latin America and Spain) and at least two periods before 1900. The periods of concentration are Colonial, 19th century, 20th/21st century, and U.S. Latino/a for Latin America; and Medieval, Golden Age, 19th century, and 20th century for Spain.

Upon admission to this program, the candidate will be assigned an adviser who, in consultation with the candidate, will design a suitable program for the candidate, following these guidelines. The adviser, in consultation with other members of the department, will select an examination committee for the comprehensive oral and written examinations. Detailed program descriptions, including reading lists and examination procedures, are available from the department.

Requirements for the Spanish M.A., Pedagogy Concentration:

Aside from deficiencies, a minimum of 36 hours of graduate course work is required for the degree. All students during their first semester take WLLC 5063 Teaching Foreign Languages on the College Level (Irregular). Students in the Pedagogy Concentration will then combine 24-27 hours of coursework in literature and culture, with an additional 6-9 hours of coursework in pedagogy, technology in the classroom, and second-language acquisition (typically WLLC 4023, WLLC 4033, and WLLC 575V or SPAN 5703), chosen in consultation with an adviser. Students in the pedagogy concentration will also be required to pass a comprehensive examination covering course work and reading lists.

Pedagogy-concentration students will complete one exam on pedagogy and technology, and four exams on literature and culture from four historical periods of the Hispanic world, including at least one period from each tradition (Latin American and Spain) and at least one period before 1900. The periods of concentration are Colonial, 19th century, 20th century, and U.S. Latino/a for Latin America; and Medieval, Golden Age, 19th century, and 20th century for Spain.

Upon admission to this program, the candidate will be assigned an adviser who, in consultation with the candidate, will design a suitable program for the candidate, following these guidelines. The adviser, in consultation with other members of the department, will select an examination committee for the comprehensive oral and written examinations. Detailed program descriptions, including reading lists and examination procedures, are available from the department.
