International and Global Studies Website (<https://fulbright.uark.edu/area-studies/international-studies/>)

The International Studies Program offers a major leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree. The program offers three concentrations:

- European and Transatlantic Affairs
- Peace, Security and Human Rights
- Global South

The Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences is strongly committed to the study of global interactions, and this program offers students a strong foundation for more advanced study as well as preparation for careers in an increasingly global economy and society. The degree offers a broad interdisciplinary course of study with a strong intercultural and international focus. Intensive language study and study abroad are especially encouraged.

Students who major in international and global studies are encouraged to pursue a minor or second major. Recommended fields include anthropology, economics, geography, history, political science, sociology, or world languages. Students may not earn both a major in International Studies and a minor in Global Studies.

B.A. in International and Global Studies with European and Transatlantic Affairs Concentration

University and College Requirements for a Bachelor of Arts in International and Global Studies. In addition to the Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences graduation requirements \(see under Degree Completion Program Policy\), the following course requirements must be met.

Honors Requirements

Admission to the Fulbright Honors Program is open to majors in the international and global studies program who have a minimum cumulative grade-point average of 3.5 in all of their coursework. College and Departmental Honors candidates must complete a minimum of 12 hours in honors courses and complete an honors thesis.

To complete the required thesis, honors candidates should choose a faculty thesis director as early as possible but no later than the first semester of the student's junior year. Honors candidates must meet the college's requirements for an honors degree. Students graduating with honors typically graduate with the distinction cum laude. Higher distinctions (magna cum laude, summa cum laude) are awarded by the Honors Council in truly exceptional cases and are based upon the whole of the candidate's program of honors studies.
